

Reading Our Way Across the U.S.A.

Lyrics & Music by Judy Pancoast © 2007

We hit the road in Maine, Mama brought a book by Stephen King
As we motored through the night she read aloud about scary things
In New Hampshire we read a poem by Robert Frost
We took the road less traveled not taken but we didn't get lost
We're reading our way all across the USA
We made it down to Massachusetts; stopped to get a bite to eat
We had to make way for the ducklings on the Boston streets
We saw the sun come up over the Big Apple
Stopped in to see Eloise at the Plaza Hotel
Oh, we're reading our way all across the USA

CHORUS

Reading our way across the USA
Reading our way across the USA
Every state has a story every region has a tale
And just like King Arthur who sought the Holy Grail
Were gonna read our way, all across the USA
Through the Midwest states we read the Little House books all day
You can visit Laura Ingalls Wilder's homestead over Missouri way
When we hit the Wild West, Daddy told us tall tales
About Paul Bunyan, Pecos Bill and Johnny Appleseed's trails
Because we're reading our way all across the USA

REPEAT CHORUS

From Huckleberry Finn down along the Mississippi Oh
To Balto in Alaska everywhere you go
You can pick up a book and read along the way....
About the fascinating things across the USA

REPEAT CHORUS
