

4. It's a Mystery to Me (by David Heitler-Klevans, © 2007, 2011)

Written for the Library Summer Reading theme 2007: "Get a Clue @ the Library". We used this song to start off our show that year entitled "The Case of the Missing Book".

(Chorus:)

I'm searchin' everywhere for my mystery book
I've tried every place, I don't know where else to look
I don't have a clue about where my book could be
I don't know what will happen - it's a mystery to me

I was reading a great mystery from the library in town
It was so exciting that I couldn't put it down
That book really had me on the edge of my seat
then I heard my parents call - it was time for me to eat
 I didn't want to stop, but my parents insisted
 I inhaled my dinner - if you blinked, you would have missed it
 I ran back to my room to start reading again
 But that book could not be found where I was sure it just had been -

(Chorus)

I went to ask my sister where my mystery could be
But she just made a face and said, "Don't ask me!"
I went and asked my dad if he could help me with my search
He said he was too busy - he just left me in the lurch
 I asked my mom to help me find my missing book
 But she just said I'd find it, if I really tried to look
 I'm begging for assistance - I'll get down on my knees
 I've got to learn what happens - won't someone help me, please?

(Chorus) (Inst. - Chorus)

(Bridge:)

Q. Did you leave it at school? A. Do you think I'm a fool?
Q. Is it under your bed? A. I looked there already!
Q. Is it somewhere in your room? A. I fear this search is doomed!
Q. Is it under there? A. Under where? Q. I made you say underwear! Ha! A.
(groan)

(Chorus), I don't know where to find it - it's a mystery to me!
[Spoken:] Oh, THERE it is! Nevermind..
