

A Clock Without A "C"

by Barry Louis Polisar

A clock without a "c" becomes a lock
And a shock without an "h" is just a sock
And like a dog without a tail
Or a ship without a sail
Without you I'm a sheep without a flock

A stand without a "t" is just some sand
And a plan without an "l" is just a pan
Sometimes you gotta rearrange
And make a little change
To see things in a way you'll understand

A flight without an "l" becomes a fight
But a slight without an "s" becomes a light
And like a seed that has to grow
Sometimes we're all a little slow
To turn a little wrong into a right
