“Walking Through the Seasons”

(Claudia Robin Gunn)

I went walking in the springtime
And I saw the trees in bloom
Daffodils all pushing through
Everywhere new beginnings
Lambs born, birds a singin
Feathering their nests
Shaking off their winter rest

CHORUS

Spring things, spring sings of silver linings
Spring sings of silver linings

I went walking in the summertime
And I heard the bees humming
Sweetpea scent in my nose
Long days, sweet strawberries and cicadas
Apples on a bough,
Cherries red ready now

CHORUS

Summer sun, summer fun is everlasting
Summer fun is everlasting

I went walking in the autumn
And I felt the crispness in the air
That crackled like a misty prayer
Leaf bonfires red and gold
Birds fly for tropic shoals
Rosehips, harvest fairs
And spider webs

CHORUS

Autumn air, we can all sing anywhere
We can all sing anywhere

LYRIC SHEET

I went walking in the winter
And I smelt the fall of snow
Sprinkling its frosty glow
Ice skates round my neck
Ready for adventure yet
Coat scarf gloves hat
Meet you by the riverbank

CHORUS

Winter winds, winter flexes her angel wings
Spring things, summer fun
Autumn air, winter winds
Could blow me anywhere
Could blow me anywhere
