verse one:

There was nothing here a week ago.
Now look--everything begins to grow.
All the plants and creatures seem to know It's spring.

verse two:

Ice and snow decide to melt away.
Sunshine chases off the winter gray.
Even grouchy people smile and say,
"It's spring."

bridge:

Rivers rush, buds appear,
Eyes pop open wide.
All is lush, children cheer,
"Time to go outside!"

verse three:

Somewhere in between the green and blue,
Some sweet song awakes inside of you.
Sing out, "Life is beautiful and new."
It's spring.
