

Invisible Blanket

©2011 Rocky Mountain Music

[Intro]

Troposphere, stratosphere
Mesosphere, Thermosphere
Ionosphere, Exosphere
Those are the layers of the atmosphere
But somewhere near
The Troposphere
Is a blanket that'll appear
As the color clear
It's really nothing more
Than a thin veneer
Of carbon gas, so alas
Superher-oes

[Chorus]

You should know that it's
Oh so invisible
Invisible blanket
Oh invisible
Uh oh invisible
Invisible blanket
Oh invisible
Uh oh invisible
Invisible blanket
"And then two polar bears floated up on a giant icecap and began to sing"

[V1]

The earth is covered by an invisible blanket
Oh invisible, Uh oh invisible
It would be so cold if it wasn't here though
So we'd better thank it
Oh invisible, thank you invisible

But have you ever gone to sleep
All snuggled up tight
And woken up later
In the middle of the night
With too many blankets
You have started to sweat
You pull off the covers but don't forget
This blanket's

[Chorus]

Oh invisible
It's so invisible
Invisible blanket
Oh invisible
Uh oh invisible
Invisible blanket

[V2]

Well, planet earth has woken up now
And it's too warm
But even a superhero
Can't remove an invisible form

The blanket is made of carbon gas
Despite invisibility it's still got mass
An atmospheric sheet
That's so complete
And we can't just remove it to relieve the heat
Oh invisible
Uh oh invisible
Invisible blanket

[Bridge]

Everyday the blanket is a little bit thicker
In every way we're warming up a little bit quicker
The invisible blanket isn't woven with needles and pins
So if we want to reduce it
We need to learn where it begins

"Where does the invisible blanket begin?"

Asked the superheroes
But before the polar bears could answer
Their icecap cracked in half and they floated away
Leaving only the seals
Doomba Doomba Doomba Doomba

[Chorus]

Oh invisible
Uh oh invisible
Invisible blanket
Oh invisible
Uh oh invisible
Invisible blanket
Oh invisible
It's so invisible
It's an invisible blanket
