

Stars Are Red, Stars Are Blue

© Jim Thorne, 2017 (key of A)

When Laura had her birthday
Tommy had his birthday, too
To celebrate together
They invented something new
They used their ships to skywrite
Linking stars with colored lines
They wrote a simple message
Wishing each a happy time

Chorus:

Oh – stars are red, stars are blue
Happy birthday just for you
Stars are red, stars are blue
Happy birthday just for you

When Tommy's parents raised him
Far beneath the planet Mars
They lived in caves all filled with air
And dreamed about the stars
His father's plant made rocket fuel
For ships to fly in space
They used a crew of robots
To inspect and keep things safe

Chorus

Bridge: (F#m)

They would work together
Riding spaceships in the sky
To help explore the universe
And see the stars go by

When Laura's parents raised her
On a station in the sky
She learned to find the asteroids
That might come zipping by
The station followed Venus
In its path around the sun
They had a friendly robot
That would help, and have some fun

Chorus & Bridge

To celebrate their birthdays
Both the families met on Earth
They threw a great big party
Full of merriment and mirth
The kids wrote Happy Birthday
With their ships up high in space
The colors were reflected
Onto every smiling face

Oh – stars are red, stars are blue
Happy birthday just for you
Stars are red, stars are blue
Happy birthday just for you

Stars are red, stars are blue
Happy birthday just for you
Stars are red, stars are blue
Happy birthday just for you