

THE FOOD CHAIN

By Ruth Hertz Weber

It starts with the plankton in the deep blue sea,
The little fishes eat it up, one, two, three.
The big fish eat the little fishes for their lunch,
And the seals eat the fish with a munch, munch, munch.

CHORUS:

Talkin' 'bout THE FOOD CHAIN, THE FOOD CHAIN
They make up a FOOD CHAIN, a FOOD CHAIN,
Take away a link, they can't survive,
They all need each other to stay alive.

The farmer plans the seeds and he grows the grain.
The cows love to eat it, again and again,
The cows give us milk so that we can drink,
That's a great food chain don't you think?

CHORUS:

Talkin' 'bout THE FOOD CHAIN, THE FOOD CHAIN,
They make up a FOOD CHAIN, a FOOD CHAIN,
Take away a link, they can't survive,
They all need each other to stay alive.

Look what your eating on your plate today
That food may have come a very long, long, way,
The eggs and the bacon, the burger, the fries,
Came from something different in shape and size.

Repeat Chorus
